

Reading Journals are a great way to start your summer days. Use your best penmanship!

All Summer Reading Journals are due to your teacher at Student Orientation 8/22.

100 Days of Summer Reading Challenge

Students who complete their journal will be honored with a certificate and award book. Students who partially complete their journal will be recognized for their participation. Students are encouraged to draw a picture on each page.

Rising 1st

- ★ Read 100 books during the summer, ideally one per day.
- ★ Write the title of the completed book on the lines provided. The author's name and a short comment or description can be added.

Rising 2nd & 3rd

- ★ Read every day during the summer, ideally 100 days. Students are not required to read 100 individual books.
- ★ Write the title of the completed book and the author's name on the lines provided. Include the number of pages read, if applicable.
- ★ Include one sentence about the book on subsequent days. If students are reading chapter books, entries can be made for individual chapters of books if preferred over daily entries.

Story of the World Reading Journal

Rising 4th - 7th

- ★ Read and complete 3-4 chapters per week.
- ★ Record key events, characters, and dates.
- ★ Compose 1-3 short sentences summarizing the chapter.
- ★ Journals are worth a homework grade.
